Description

A nicely proportioned and well made grandmother clock, dating to the George V period. It has a serpentine shape top with a break arch dial, a quartered veneer door and base and an ogee shaped base. The brass dial has a silvered chapter ring and Tempus fugit disc (Latin for Time flies). The 8 day German made movement has a long cylinder pendulum and sounds the quarters on two different chimes, Whittington on 8 chime bars and Westminster (Big Ben) on four chime bars. It has a tune selector and a chime/silent lever on the dial.
